NEW GRAND JURY

NAMES ARE DRAWN The names of L. A. McCrumen, S. C. Awbrey, C. D. Freeman, V. R. Stilles, H. D. Camp, T. W. Lanier, James A. Dick, John O. Wyler, W. U. Carre, S. H. Sutherland, John W. Fert, Ira E. Eider, G. P. Putnam, C. E. Kellogg, T. D. Parcher and George E. Franklin, were read out Wednezday morning by district clerk J. A. Escajeda in the 54th district court, as the members out of which the grand jury for the January term of that court would be selected.

On account of the case of the case.

On account of the case of the estate of Juan Armendaris not being completed, Judge Dan M. Jackson was unable to adjourn the court for the November term. However, the pronpective grand jurors were instructed to appear at 3 oclock this afternoon at which time it was stated the court would adjourn and convene for the January term. At this time, the grand jury will be empanciled, 12 being selected from the 16 summoned.

Judge Jackson announced that no special instructions, beyond those respecial instructions, beyond those required by the statute relative to gaming, violation of election laws, and the running of houses of ill fame. would be given the new grand jury.
District attorney W. W. Bridger will work with the grand jury. It is believed that alleged violations of the election laws during the county election will be brought to the notice of the present grand jury.

BIG ACQUEDUCT HAS COST LIVES OF 200

New York, N. Y. Jan. 8.—A death list as long as is recorded in some of the country's worst mine disasters has resulted from accidents during the building of the new acqueduct from the Catskill to New York, according to figures published here. Since the first pick was struck on the aqueduct 200 men have been killed and 3800 injured. The engineering work is add to be second only to that of the Amanza canal, where 1087 deaths from violence have occurred.
